EMPLOYMENT AND SKILLS CONVENTION

Opportunities to sponsor

Led by

L&W LEARNING AND WORK INSTITUTE

The Employment and Skills Convention is Learning and Work Institute's major event for the employment and skills sectors.

Bringing together an audience of 200+ politicians, policy makers, practitioners and researchers, this is an essential opportunity to take stock of the challenges we face and spark new ideas for the future.

In recent years, we have been joined by parliamentarians including Secretaries of State and Shadow Ministers for Education and Work and Pensions. We've also had keynotes from Metro Mayors for Greater Manchester and the West Midlands.

In 2025, our in-person convention welcomed delegates from central and local government, employers, third sector organisations, and skills and employment support providers.

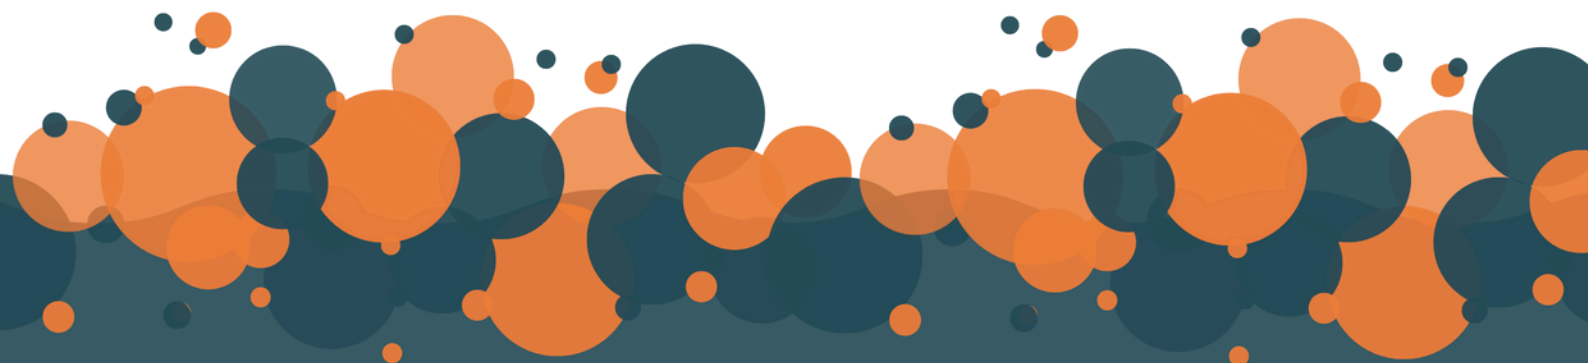

Feedback from 2025

“I really look forward to attending the Learning & Work Institute's conference — it's always a hot ticket and never disappoints.”

“These conferences provide a vital opportunity to keep up to date with latest policy, network with colleagues for across the UK, in different roles and organisations, and discover new best practice.”

“Lots of inspiring conversations about how we can boost employment, close the skills gap and make sure support around work, health and learning is better joined up.”

“I had the privilege of attending [...] an excellent opportunity to engage with colleagues across the sector, explore innovative perspectives and discuss collaborative efforts to create inclusive pathways to meaningful employment”

Our lead sponsors will have the opportunity to shape themes and content, with a focus on the big debates and key challenges such as economic growth, economic inactivity, disability and health, recruitment, retraining, the apprenticeship levy, and devolution of skills and employment support.
